Sinn Fein To Decide If It Is Peace Or War

Lloyd George Rejects DeValera's Demand for Complete Separation.

ONUS IS PASSED TO IRISH

English People Well Satisfied With Government's Peace Proposal.

By Ed. L. Keen

By United Press Leased Wire
London.—The struggle of centuries reached a climax Monday with the British demand on Sinn Fein Ireland that she accept membership in the British empire as a dominion.

The future of Ireland lay with the Sinn Fein Parliament. It meets Tuesday.

In England, it was believed almost unanimously that the government's peace terms were generous, that the premier's reply to "President" De Valera's demand for expansion of the terms was fair and that it left the onus of Ireland's fate to the Sinn Fein.

Lloyd George returned Monday from his country home, Chequers, where he went Saturday immediately before all the Irish correspondence was made public. It was believed he would have nothing further to offer until the Dail Eireann has made its choice—peace or war.

The belief was general here that the Welshman, through publishing the correspondence between himself and De Valera and the letter of general Smuts to De Valera had solidified support in this country. Even the liberal element, it was believed, would agree that the British offer was as generous as could be conceived.

There was belief that De Valera took pains to leave the way open for further negotiations. There was little doubt that the Dail Eireann Tuesday will refuse to break off all negotiations, especially since British newspapers which have inclined to the Irish view are urging the folly of doing so.

Still Hope for Best

Dublin.—Sinn Fein newspapers Monday indicated their hope that peace negotiations with Great Britain will be broken off as a "right" President De Valera's insistence on complete separation.

Other newspapers were inclined to criticize the British government's answer to that demand as an "unlucky" answer.

"The correspondence will cause much amazement," said the Northern Whig, Belfast. "We have no hesitation in saying that the government's terms, if even effect, would cause the disintegration of the empire. We refuse to believe the British people will be foolish enough to ratify such proposals."

The Irish News also of Belfast, declared parliament should have had an opportunity to pass on the government's proposals before they were made.

In Dublin the comment centered on the hope that negotiations will continue. "The prospect of returning to intensified warfare after a short period of peace is appalling," the Dublin Independent declared.

May Go Back to Prison

London.—Members of the Sinn Fein parliament who have been released to discuss British peace terms may have to return to prison. Premier Lloyd George told the house of commons Monday.

The Sinn Feiners were released solely to pass on the peace proposals, the premier said.

"No person in Ireland has been granted amnesty," he said.

Expected Referendum

London.—The Irish electorate probably will be asked to vote on acceptance or rejection of the British government's peace terms, according to the press association Monday.

The referendum would be ordered by the Dail Eireann, which meets Tuesday.

100 KANSANS PLEAD FOR FREIGHT CUTS

By United Press Leased Wire

Washington, D. C.—Clyde Reed, chairman of the Kansas industrial commission Monday led a delegation of more than 100 before the interstate commerce commission at a public hearing to plead for a general reduction in railroad rates on grain.

Members of congress from 20 states appeared with the delegation of grain growers in support of the proposal.

The delegation came to Washington, Reed said, to arrange before the commission "the simple story of the depression of a great industry."

Reed painted a picture of business reverses due, he said, to high railroad rates which had paralyzed general business and economic conditions throughout the west. Farmers, he declared, were held to hold their grain on the farm because it could not profitably be shipped to market.

Attorney General Hopkins of Kansas examined witnesses among whom were shippers, dealers, growers and handlers of grain and many others from Duluth, St. Louis and a score of other western cities.

RUSH PREPARATIONS TO TRY MURDER SUSPECT

By United Press Leased Wire

Roseburg, Oregon.—Preparations were made here Monday for a speedy trial for Dr. R. M. Brumfield, charged with the brutal murder of Dennis Russell, his friend.

Brumfield will be arraigned as soon as he reaches here from Calgary, Alberta, where he was captured.

The dentist is charged with murdering Russell and mutilating his body so it would look like his own. The police believe this was done to collect a large sum of insurance Dr. Brumfield carried on himself.

Obenchain Heads Defense For His Divorced Wife

By United Press Leased Wire

Los Angeles, Calif.—Pale, erect, proud, Madalynne Obenchain stood before Judge Reeves Monday and heard for the first time the indictment against herself and Arthur C. Burch, charging them with the murder of J. B. Kennedy.

Obenchain, quiet, forceful and keen, was given permission by Judge Reeves to appear as counsel for his former wife.

John M. Curran appeared as attorney for Burch.

Obenchain and Curran asked that a continuance be given until the entire personnel of the legal counsel for the defendants could be completed.

John Reeves granted the request. Hearing of the pleas was set for August 22.

He also ordered that a transcript of the testimony given before the grand jury which resulted in the indictments for the first degree murder be turned over to Obenchain and Curran as counsel for the defense.

A parley behind closed doors was started following the postponement of the arraignment.

The parley is over the question of whether Madalynne and Burch will stand trial together and make common defense with one counsel or attorneys, or whether they will demand separate trials.

The general opinion prevails that Madalynne's attorneys, headed by her former husband, Ralph Obenchain, will ask a separate trial for her, believing that this proceeding will protect her from any damaging evidence that may be brought against Burch.

Burch's attorneys, however, headed by John Curran, are known to be anxious to have the two trials joined and conduct a joint defense.

KING PETER OF SERBIA, 80, IS NEARING DEATH

By United Press Leased Wire

Washington.—King Peter of Serbia is near death, according to a cable to the legation here Monday.

The king lost consciousness Saturday, according to the cable, and has not regained it. Doctors have noticed a dry wheezing in the upper portion of the lungs and the gathering of moisture at the base of the lungs.

The king, who is nearly 80, has not been in active charge of the government since 1915 when Alexander, the present regent, took over the king's duties.

Banker Warns Of New Buying Strike In U. S.

F. H. Sisson Declares Retail Merchants Have Not Made Satisfactory Adjustments in Prices of Their Commodities.

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—Retail dealers were warned by a New York banker Monday that the American public may employ another buyers' strike to force a reduction in the cost of living.

The banker was Francis H. Sisson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust company. He declared the apparent reluctance of retailers to lower their prices in the same ratio that producers, manufacturers and wholesalers have done is the principal factor in obstructing a return to complete prosperity.

"With the recent so-called buyers' strike still fresh in memory retailers who are endeavoring to sustain their prices until they can work off their stocks carried over from the period when rising prices induced excessive accumulation of goods should remember that the public holds in its hands an irresistible power and has demonstrated that it knows how to use that power effectively when occasion demands," he said.

Sisson asserted that the great present need in speeding the complete recovery of business is the constructive cooperation of all factors, "especially in respect to costs of commodities to the ultimate consumer."

"As soon as prices have been completely readjusted and stabilized the tremendous latent buying power in this country will be transformed into a potential energy which will revive, not the hectic, unhealthy prosperity of war, but the sound and safe prosperity of peace," he said.

"Readjustment of production costs has been retarded by the fact wages have declined less rapidly than whole sale prices. This is occasioned in some part of the corresponding failure of reversion to the downward revision. Now, the less wages are declining and, generally speaking, the revision has been made without extraordinary resistance by the workers."

"Retail prices as a whole must also be adjusted in line with present replacement costs."

Incidentally, it has been disclosed that the British government did not impose any tariff on goods sent from the United States to Great Britain for war purposes, but waived all tariff claims. The French government set up as a precedent, the action of the United States in dealing with surplus stocks left in the Philippine islands at the close of the Spanish American war, the usual customs duties being paid on such tax, as a matter of fact, the precedent was not valid because Spain was the enemy of the United States at that time and not an ally.

The American commission, however, realized that it would cost a good deal of money to guard the large supplies, if they were not disposed of to the French government, and that it would take a large number of American troops to watch the supplies. So the American commission found itself compelled to accept the French terms, and consoling itself with the idea that the supplies would find their way in small quantities to the French people who would thus be materially assisted in the work of reconstruction.

Sleuths Say Cripple Is Missing Showman

FRANCE WANTED TO EXACT TARIFF ON WAR SUPPLIES

Congress Astounded by Ungrateful Attitude of French Government.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1921, by Post Pub. Co.

Washington.—Members of congress have been astonished by the disclosures that the French government had attempted to impose a tariff duty on war materials shipped to France during the war.

Congress learned for the first time that France insisted that, if the American government attempted to carry back to the United States the supplies remaining after the armistice, a duty of about one hundred and fifty million dollars would be imposed. As a consequence of this threat, the American Liquidating commission sold to France for four hundred million dollars property originally valued at one billion, seven hundred million dollars.

Not only did France agree to waive a tariff claim when the sale was made, but promised that the goods would be used for the benefit of the French people in rehabilitating devastated areas.

Now it turns out that the French government has sold most of the property to speculators and individuals, who are trying to ship the goods to the United States and sell them here at cut prices. The house of representatives has blocked the scheme, however, by adopting a resolution imposing a tariff of 90 per cent on all such goods, so that none of it will be dumped on American shores.

Violated Agreement

So far as the rest of the world is concerned, however, American automobiles and trucks, leather and harness goods, electrical equipment and other American products, which were originally intended for the use of the allied armies, will be available at prices far below those at which American firms are offering their own goods at this time.

No explanation was made in congress of the reason why the French government violated the spirit of its understanding with the American Liquidating commission, and permitted the war material to fall into the hands of speculators. Indeed, the American commission, of which Edwin B. Aftor and General James H. Doolittle were members, felt that in disposing of the American supplies at approximately twenty-five cents on the dollar, they were doing a charitable thing.

Instead vast quantities have been sold by the French government to houses which have already sent to the United States, free of duty, over two and a half million dollars worth of goods in the month of June alone. In preventing the entry of this kind of goods hereafter, congress takes the position that it is merely protecting American firms against unfair competition.

Britain Was Fair

Harding Wants To Keep Posted On Orient News

By Raymond Clapper

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—President Harding intends to establish a "listening post" in the Philippines at the door of the orient.

His purpose, it was learned Monday, is to enable this government to keep fully advised on conditions in the Far East during the disarmament conference in Washington.

The first step will be appointment of General Leonard Wood as governor-general of the islands. Official announcement of the appointment is expected to follow receipt of the report of the Wood-Forbes commission, due by cable from Manila this week.

RETAILERS LOOK FOR BIG SUCCESS AT ANNUAL MEET

Visitors Are Welcomed by Gustave Keller and Hugh G. Corbett.

With an attendance of about 125 delegates, the Wisconsin Retailers' association opened its twenty-first annual convention in Elk club Monday morning. A. J. Herrmann, president of the local retail grocers' association, called the convention to order.

Gustave Keller delivered the address of welcome in place of Mayor J. A. Hawes, who is out of the city. Mr.

RECEPTION PLANS
Reception cars assemble on College-ave. east of Oneida-st. promptly at 9 o'clock.

Meet Seymour boosters in Kaukauna at 9:30 stopping at Little Chute and Kimberly on return trip here.

Parade up and down College-ave. at 10:30, with band concert and free exhibition at College-ave. and Appleton st.

All automobile owners asked to turn out. Accommodations will be provided for all people who want to go and who do not have cars.

Keller assured the delegates that they are welcome in this city and that committee are always ready to be of service to them. Mr. Keller mentioned he had no authority from the mayor to welcome the delegates in the name of Appleton, but he could welcome them in the name of the United States.

The response on behalf of the state association was given by I. C. Gerhard of Fond du Lac, who acknowledged the address of welcome. Referring to the signs of welcome on the roads leading out of the city, Mr. Gerhard said they created a warm feeling for the city and gave him a vision that the convention is to be the best ever held.

The speaker continued that in order to get something good out of the convention, it is necessary to put some "bite" into it. He encouraged everyone with ideas and problems to bring them up for discussion at the sessions.

Reviews City's History.
Hugh Corbett, in an address of welcome on behalf of the chamber of commerce, stated the delegates represent one of the great states in the Union, one which ranks with the important countries of the world in industry.

Mr. Corbett portrayed Wisconsin, the mother of great statesmen like Dodge, Vilas, Spooner and Carpenter, business men, inventors like Schott, who invented the typewriter, Stevens and Babcock. Wisconsin is the home of great authors like William Nye, George W. Peck, Edna Ferber and Zona Gale and song writers like Eben Rexford and Joseph Webster, he said.

Turning to a summary of Appleton's history, the speaker told how Appleton was first settled between 1830 and 1845. He said in 1848 Lawrence college was built and opened its first term with an enrollment of 35 students. Last term Lawrence college enrollment was 1,200 students.

Mr. Corbett concluded with a plea for the grocers to gain a higher conception of business ideals in distribution and to play the game according to rules and play it straight.

W. A. Tomack of Two Rivers gave his response in which he expressed his appreciation on behalf of the delegates for the efforts of the Appleton association in making the convention a success.

State president, Charles Petrie of Milwaukee, presided at the business session which began following community singing lead by Dean Carl J. Waterman. Committees were appointed.

1,000 AUTOS USE ASYLUM CROSSING

Agitation Is Gaining Headway to Ask Protection of Railroad Company.

How much need there is for greater safety at the Chicago and Northwestern railroad crossing at Asylum road is shown by traffic census taken by Edvard Young, showing that approximately 1,000 automobiles pass that point in 24 hours.

There has been talk among residents of that locality and among local motorists to demand protection by a flamen moving south or alteration of the surroundings. The agitation took on new life when a woman was killed there recently and another badly hurt.

Drivers going east are unable to see northbound approaching trains because of a house that obstructs the view until the automobile is almost at the crossing. A cornfield on the other side partially cuts off the view. Those who pass this crossing often are familiar with the conditions and exercise caution, but many strangers also use this highway. The census showed that 553 cars cross the tracks in the daytime and 399 at night.

The Rev. and Mrs. Fred Marohn and daughter Margaret of Richwood, Wis. and Mr. and Mrs. H. Marohn and daughter Mildred of Waukegan, Wis., visited relatives and friends here Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Dileworth have returned from their annual vacation. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schmeider and daughter Elizabeth returned to Chicago Monday after visiting friends here and camping at Pickering Lake. Mrs. Max Ulrich is visiting friends in Seymour.

RED ASKS $20,000 FOR BEING KIDNAPED

By United Press Leased Wire
Plattsburgh, N.Y.—Mrs. Ida Crouch Hazlett, Socialist campaigner, announced Monday she will bring suit against Thomas Murphy, Shenandoah, Iowa, for $20,000.

She will charge Murphy son of a banker and commander of the Shenandoah American legion post, with breaking up one of her meetings and kidnapping her. Murphy, she said, led a band of legionnaires which motored her through the country at breakneck speed but finally yielded to her applied psychology and returned her to her hotel unharmed.

"I won a psychological victory over these Shenandoah boys," Mrs. Hazlett said Monday.

"From the start I took command of their minds and led them step by step into returning me unharmed."

"When the banker's son raised his hand to strike I warned off the blow by remarking on the bravery of nine men in beating up a lone woman."

GOES TO WORKHOUSE FOR MAKING "MOON"

Peter Verstegen Admits Breaking Law—Says He Sold His Outfit.

Charged with selling intoxicating liquor in violation of the state laws, Peter Verstegen, 39, living at 355 Le-cust-st., was arrested Saturday evening after being shadowed for several days by Detective John Duvall. He was supposed to have made a delivery of moonshine but had none in his possession when caught. Sufficient evidence had been gained, however, to hold him on the charge.

Verstegen was said to have been operating a still at his home, but the outfit could not be found. He first said he had thrown it into a ravine, but later declared he had sold it for $25, but would not reveal the name of the purchaser.

In municipal court Monday morning, Verstegen pleaded guilty to the charge of making and selling intoxicating liquor and was given a 30 days workhouse sentence by Judge A. M. Spencer.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert McLaughlin of 983 Appleton-st. Friday morning at maternity hospital.

Farm Leaves Family After Sixty Years

After family ownership extending over a period of 60 years, William and Earl Hilligen have sold their 160-acre farm in the town of Center to Mrs. Caroline Kreutzman of Appleton for $32,000. Sheriff P. G. Schwartz had charge of the transaction.

It is said that few farms in Outagamie-co. have remained in one family as long as has the Hilligen farm. The place was originally homesteaded by Michael Hilligen who came to Outagamie-co. in 1860. He and his wife worked hard to develop the farm and at the same time reared a family of 12 children.

Since the death of the parents several years ago the farm has been operated by the sons, William and Earl. Besides these two, the other eight children still living are Max and Ida Hilligen, Mrs. P. G. Schwartz and Thomas Hilligen of Appleton, Mrs. William Waters and James and George Hilligen of Bessemer, Mich., and John Hilligen of Hibbing, Minn.

GIRLS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH UNDER TRAIN WHEELS

Two unidentified girls in their teens escaped being run down by less than a yard at Appleton-st. crossing Friday afternoon. The gates had been let down for an approaching passenger train and

BURY TWO RAINBOW HEROES SATURDAY

Impressive services marked the joint burial of the bodies of Sergis Oney Johnston and William B. Heiss from the First Congregational church Saturday afternoon. There was a large attendance of members of Oney Johnston post of the American legion and the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Eulogies praising the valor of the fallen Rainbow division heroes were delivered for Sergt. Johnston by the Rev. J. H. Tippet and for Sergt. Heiss by the Rev. John McCoy, Kaukauna.

Comrades who fought with the dead men acted as pallbearers and as a firing squad. The bodies were buried side by side in Riverside cemetery with full military honors. They laid in state in the church auditorium Saturday morning.

1,000 AUTOISTS. ENJOY BEAUTIES OF KESHENA FALLS

Keshena Falls were visited Sunday by 200 automobile parties who spent the day there. The number of automobiles belonging to tourists and others that stopped during the day was estimated at 1,000. Fully 50 automobiles were from Appleton and still a larger number were from Green Bay. The falls are fast becoming known as one of the beauty spots of Wisconsin and tourists passing that way all stop to admire them.

MISCONCEPTION AS TO RUSSIAN RELIEF

Secretary of Commerce Hoover evidently assumes, and quite properly, that the distribution of foodstuffs, clothing, medicines and supplies in Russia shall be directly in charge of representatives of the American Relief committee. He insists, therefore, on arrangements with the soviet government itself for the safety and freedom of relief workers.

The soviet government seems to believe, as is indicated by cable messages, that the actual relief work will be done by its officers and agents. It seems to believe that the food and supplies will be given by the American relief workers to the soviet agents, who would undertake to effect distribution. The consequences of any such arrangement would be, of course, that the soviet workers would dispense relief as they saw fit.

To the soviet plan there are two extremely grave prospects. One is that the distribution of food, clothing and supplies would be accomplished with partiality and without system or efficiency or general benefit. The other is that the soviet agents would become, as relief workers, angels of charity, and they could, and probably would, try to turn the relief work to political ends.

Soviet Foreign Minister Tchitcherine says that 18,000,000 people in sixteen localities are in dire distress. These people absolutely need more than 2,000,000,000 pounds of foodstuffs, and this quantity would be only fifty per cent of normal rations. Feed for animals is also needed, and so are seeds and stock. There can hardly be any doubt that these estimates are the minimum of actual requirements.

Mr. Hoover's stand that the soviet government itself must guarantee the safety and freedom of American relief workers, and that those representatives must carry on the relief work, is the stand to which he should adhere, and in which he should be supported. It would be expecting too much, in view of the many failures of the soviet government and system to expect efficiency and impartiality through soviet direction of relief.

OPPOSITION TO SEATING OF NEWBERRY

A strong and militant alliance of Republican and Democratic senators with Kenyon of Iowa as its leader, has been formed quickly for the dual purpose of preventing Senator Newberry of Michigan from being seated and driving a wedge into the reactionary force which controls the upper house of congress. The opposition is made up of shrewd, brainy, belligerent, determined and perseverant senators, including Borah of Idaho, Johnson of California, Pomerene of Ohio and Ashurst of Arizona, who rally zealously to the support of a principle and who have ideas of their own as to the dominating ring.

The majority report of privileges and elections committee, which was adopted by a partisan vote, exonerated the incoming senator from Michigan of buying his seat, with the explanation that Newberry was not cognizant of the generosity of his campaign managers. As might have been expected, and as was expected by all who are acquainted with political manipulation, the report solemnly and patriotically deplores and condemns the distribution of a stack of money in the Michigan campaign.

"We are not children," a remark attributed to Ashurst, who will submit one of the two minority reports, smells like an explosive. "A wealthy man," this senator continues, "could give a power of attorney to a confidential agent, go away to Europe, and come back to find himself senator." As to the minority report which Pomerene will present, the smoke of battle blows in the announcement that he has followed the case from the beginning. The Pomerene and Ashurst bargains will be followed by an attack by Kenyon, reinforced by Borah and Johnson—and Borah. It is worth remembering, fought for his disarmament ideal until President Harding arranged for the disarmament conference. Thirteen of the sixty Republican votes, added to the thirty-six Democratic votes, would debar Newberry from the senate.

The group of dauntless senators who will bring all their might to bear against the seating of Newberry will have vigorous public opinion with them. As far as the people are concerned the expenditure of a large amount of money for a nomination is not a partisan issue; from their standpoint, the buying or the attempted purchase of an office is treacherous crime against the representative form of government.

DOES THE CONSUMER PAY THE TAX?
As taxation of products and merchandise is an item of cost of manufacture or carrying on business, the rule is that it is passed on to the consumer, or that as much of it can be transmitted to the consumer is included in the price of the goods. However, all taxes of this kind are not paid by the consumer, either in whole or in part, but in some cases must be assumed by the manufacturer, or more generally by the middleman.

Business competition, the amount of the tax, fluctuations of prices, and a few more factors actuate toward placing the burden of taxes on goods on the consumer, the jobber or the manufacturer, or of distributing the load. If the tax is comparatively large, it is passed on to the consumer, as it is a large production cost item and must influence prices; if it is relatively small, it tends to be absorbed by the manufacturer, provided it is too small to cause an increase of price; if it is an element of strong competition, it may be shared by the manufacturer and jobber, or be borne mostly or entirely by the jobber.

The tax is passed on to the consumer whenever this is possible, but there are many cases in which it does not affect the consumer at all.

LESS RED TAPE ON LEGIONAIRES

The veteran's aid bureau, which has been created by the Sweet bill, has absorbed the war risk insurance bureau, the federal board for vocational education and the activities of the public health service. Col. Charles F. Forbes, former head of the war risk insurance bureau, is director of the new, consolidated bureau.

Claims will be adjudicated, says Col. Forbes, "on the soldier's doorstep." Although the work will be managed from the central office, agents will have authority to settle compensation claims in the field, to the end, again quoting Col. Forbes, that "much of the red tape will be eliminated." Many more soldiers will be entitled to compensation than under the superseded laws and systems. Special attention will be given by the bureau to the rehabilitation of veterans.

The spirit displayed by Col. Forbes in his statement concerning the operating plans is exactly what veterans and their friends have longed for as they have felt keenly the apparent neglect of their interests and the seeming indifference regarding their welfare. The difficulty and delay, the strict formality and occasional brusque treatment, with which they have had to contend in seeking relief to which their sacrifices entitled them have irritated and disgusted them as signs of national ingratitude.

Primary and most mandatory of all the obligations of the government and the people are those which are due to the veterans of the world war, and in particular to disabled and needy veterans. Veterans who need help should receive it, and immediately and easily, and the help should be given to them with courtesy and sympathy.

LIFE'S VARIOUS STAGES.

Youth scorns the inducements of Age and gambles deeply with life. Youth has all to gain and naught but life to lose. He learns the white hot heat of anger when but a child later the smothering hopes and positive quality of love. Come still later many stout throwbacks into reality, and buffdings which temper judgment, but the forward march continues unabated. Zeal to live is paramount and always must Youth bow to Age's undulations, slow movements and paralyzing fears which are grouped with Age's uncertainties. So is a man molded and the wine of life aged.—"Tress" in Chicago Tribune.

MOTHER SPOILED IT ALL.

While I was still in school, I attended an evening party at the home of one of my girl friends, writes a correspondent of the Chicago Journal. When it was time to go, there were two fellows who wanted to take me home. I was very much flattered and accepted them both. One of the boys appealed to me strongly and I imagined myself deeply in love with him. But, as it was getting late and my folks were carrying about me, my mother set out to meet me. When she saw me with a fellow on each arm, she was scandalized and started to scold, while the boys, very much frightened, ran away.

Health Talks

DIDN'T RAISE MY BOY—

Quoting from an address entitled, "A Father's Responsibility to His Son," by Charles E. Barker, H. D. and P. C. D., delivered June 19 before the Tenth Annual Rotary Convention at Salt Lake City, Utah:

"...I do not believe in the teaching of sex hygiene to children in the public schools, under high school age. (Applause). I don't want my child to have his mind instructed on this most important, and if you please, sacred matter, by a stranger who has no affection or love for him....

"...The sane, logical, wise and sensible way to deal with this problem is by the father with his own boy in the home and the mother with her own daughter in the home; that it is not a question to be left to strangers; that it is not a question that should come to these boys and girls from the public schools (Applause)...."

The natural way, to be sure, is for the father to instruct his son and the mother her daughter—but very few fathers and mothers are competent to do so, because of the known fact that this part of their own education was neglected when they went to school.

I want my children instructed on this sacred question in the public school from grade 1 of the primary department right on up through the very last year of high school. I think the public school teacher is quite as competent and safe to teach my children sex hygiene as he or she is to teach them physiology, mathematics or history. There is something radically wrong with the very notion of instructing children in such a matter if the instruction is unfit for a school teacher to impart. The great drawback about too much matter masquerading under the refined title of sex hygiene is that the stuff is stilted, insincere, mysterious and in effect more harmful to the curious child. If we can't be entirely frank and sincere with our children, it would be far better to leave to the wicked old alibi of the stork and the shameful trick of suppressing a child's curiosity by hinting that "such things are not proper to talk about."

I should dislike to send my children to school if I thought the teacher or teachers were not morally responsible. I should hate to have my children taught even geography by a teacher I did not respect and trust.

To withhold knowledge every boy and girl should have until high school age is too late, tragically late. In the interim they are pretty sure to be taught things by outsiders, and in a tainted way. I want my children to have an honest, liberal education. I don't want to try to train them with blinders on. Right-minded instruction in so-called hygiene should begin as early as the child begins to ask questions, be at three, six, nine or twelve years. Rightly trained school teachers should be provided in every school that pretends to train the young mind in the way it should go, to impart this knowledge to children from the primary grades up through every grade of common school.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Iron in the Water.

I am in fairly good health now, having been recently discharged from a TB sanatorium as an arrested case. I am living where I can have drinking water which contains considerable iron. Would you advise me to drink it or not? (Mrs. S. W. J.)

Answer—Not so far as any medicinal value is concerned, but if the taste is agreeable to you and the water does not disturb your digestion or free bowel action it is probably harmless.

Whooping Cough.

My children, ages 2½ and 9 years, are coming down with what I think is whooping cough. I give them cough medicine, but it does not seem to do them any good. Their noses commence to bleed nearly every time they cough. Is it anything dangerous? (Mrs. S. Z.)

Answer—Whooping cough is a serious disease. Keep the children outdoors all day and let them sleep outdoors if possible. Make for each an abdominal binder some six inches wide, with woven elastic insertions at the sides, and eyelets and cord or tape to lace snugly on at the back over the undershirt. This affords elastic support to the abdomen and seems to make the coughing spells come less frequently and less severely. Have the family doctor administer at once the whooping cough vaccine, or if you are unable to employ a private physician perhaps you can obtain the great benefit by applying to the city health department. It is dangerous to play a child with an alleged cough medicine unless your doctor or the health department has approved the medicine, for many such medicines contain narcotics or opiates which have brought death to too many children.

Eye Color Insignificant.

Kindly inform me whether a variation in the eyes—one eye blue, the other brown—denotes any trait of character. (Mrs. A. U.)

Answer—No. All eyes are brown. "Blue" eyes have the least brown pigment; "gray" eyes have more; "brown eyes still more; "black" eyes most of all.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

Monday, Aug. 17, 1896.

James Pardee was reported critically ill. Dr. William Cornerford was confined to his room with an abscess on his arm.

"Bunt" Buckins, who had been on the road with a circus band, was home on a visit.

George F. Peabody left for New York on a two weeks' business trip.

Prof. I. N. Stewart, editorial writer for the Milwaukee Journal, was spending his vacation with Appleton friends.

Mrs. L. F. Euler and daughter, Kittie, arrived home from a visit with relatives at Rice Lake.

Frank Wolman was critically ill with a carbuncle on his neck.

Miss May McCarthy returned from Marinette, where she had been the guest of Miss Katherine McLaughlin.

Charles Clark announced himself as a candidate for the nomination of assemblyman in the Second district of Outagamie co.

P. J. Devlin arrived home from New York, where he expected to remain for a short time before resuming his work on the road.

Frederick Olin, managing editor of the San Francisco Examiner, was holding over the scenes of his boyhood days. He was born in 1857 on the farm in the town of Freedom occupied by Mrs. Randerson, Sr.

The Paper Trade Journal said two-thirds of the stone dam at the Manufacturing Investment Co.'s plant at Madison, Me., was completed. It was being constructed of granite and was 540 feet long. It was to cost $35,000.

The Rev. A. J. Mead returned from a trip to Nebraska in the interest of the American Bible society.

The funeral of H. A. Phinney was held the day previous from his late home. The pallbearers were George Adkins, Norman Erb, David Hammel, Prof. H. A. Jones, John McNaughton and the Rev. Mr. Peep.

Peat Fuel Possibilities

By Frederic J. Haslkin

Washington, D. C.—Wide use of the natural peat deposits in this continent as a substitute for or a supplement to coal

Haslkin

States there are thirteen billion tons of peat with more than half of the supply centered in Minnesota.

One of the difficulties which has always stood in the way of using this material as commercial fuel has been getting the moisture out of it so that it would be approximately as good as coal. Machines are now in operation which go so far toward accomplishing this end.

H. W. Richardson, meteorologist and official weather forecaster for the region around Duluth, Minnesota, has made a study of the peat question for a number of years, and believes that its use as fuel is entirely practical because of the low cost that improved methods of cutting and drying make possible. A long series of tests has been made, and while it was found that lumps of coal were better than lumps of peat as fuel, due to the amount of moisture retained by the lump peat, crushed and atomized peat was found to be about equal to crushed coal in the units of heat produced.

Crushing coal before feeding it into the fires of factories has been found to be efficacious and economical, resulting in economy in the amount of fuel needed for the production of any particular amount of heat energy, and an additional saving in that the coal could be fed into furnaces exactly as required, an impossibility with lump coal.

Atomized coal or peat is fed into the furnaces after being mixed with air, the mixture being heated or wafted into the fires without substantial pressure to form the feeding stream of air. Crushing coal for fuel purposes is a growing industry, one concern in Minneapolis alone crushing and distributing over 500 tons of coal daily for nearby factories. Similar crushing plants are being started at Duluth and its neighboring city, Superior.

Must Use Machines

In turning to the American peat supply for fuel, it was realized that the use of laborers for digging and drying peat was out of the question, as it would make the cost of production so high that the product could not be marketed. Peat dug mechanically and dried by artificial heat or chemicals was out of the question also. It was found, as the margin of profit between producing cost and marketing price must necessarily be small. Machines were perfected, therefore, and are in use and declared to be successful and practical, which will dig up the peat, pulverize it and lay it out in flat strips for drying, all in one operation. These machines, it is claimed, can prepare the peat fuel at a cost less than $2 per ton, and a great market is open to this fuel at the low price now possible.

Peat is nothing more than decomposed or partly decomposed vegetable matter occurring where still, but not stagnant, water has been in the past. The peat occurs also underneath still standing water. The depth of the peat deposits will range from five to ninety feet, that nearest the top being lighter and less decomposed than the lower layers.

In its natural state peat contains as high as ninety per cent of moisture, and the problem of making the substance commercially valuable as fuel is to eliminate as much as possible of this moisture. Artificial heat has been used successfully, the peat being put through a kind of baking process, but this is too expensive to make the finished product an economical fuel. Chemicals have been used successfully, but this also makes the fuel cost too much money when it is ready for use. Out of the necessity for a cheap but excellent method of preparing peat for fuel the Garnett system was developed.

The Garnett machine runs over the peat deposit, lifting a continuous broad slice of peat into itself as it moves forward. This peat is macerated and mixed with water until the combination has about the consistency of tar or thick paint. This mixture is discharged by the machine in ribbons, three or four inches thick, with just enough consistency to retain its shape while drying in the open air. When air drying is complete, the resultant slabs have their moisture content reduced to twenty-five per cent or less. In this slab form it can be used as fuel in the home or in factories, but when it is ground up and made into atomized fuel still better results are obtained.

Much Money in Peat

It is figured that this fuel peat, commercially dry and loaded on cars for delivery, will cost only $1.50 per ton. It is hoped that the cost will never run above $2 per ton. Then, if the whole peat supply in the United States were valued at a selling price of $3.50 per ton, to include a profit for producing it, and transportation for the peat beds of the country is the stupendous sum of $45,500,000,000. The deposits in Minnesota alone would represent $24,500,000,000 a sum almost equal to the cost of the World War to the United States.

Where the peat deposit is only five feet thick, the yield of peat is a thousand tons of commercially dry peat to the acre. Over a large area 30 miles northwest of Duluth the peat deposit is ninety feet thick, which means that the yield per acre will be 18,000 tons. The Garnett process enables one machine to make from three to five tons of dry peat fuel in an hour. Other machines are in process of development, some of them in use. One machine is designed especially for making the peat into briquettes for home use. This use of peat is leading to the installation of small peat plants near communities where there is no great amount of commercial use for peat, but where households make a market for the fuel, saving freight charges by digging it close to where it is to be used.

Peat fuel can and will be used in gas producers for it develops gas easily and regularly and this process allows the saving of the valuable by-products that the peat contains. Some of these are ammonium sulphate, creosote, petroleum, oils, asphalt and charcoal. The Europeans, particularly the Germans, have developed this phase under the pressure of necessity due to the loss of former coal fields. In fact, the port is home they are now doing about everything economically with peat that they once did with coal.

Nor is this the limit of this unused wonder worker. The black humified peat makes fine cattle feed after being dried down and screened. This peat powder acts as an absorbent and roughage for the high power feeds made from the residues from beet and sugar refineries and it is very easily digested. Peat is also used as a fertilizer filler and absorbent of the more volatile constituents. It has a steady market for this purpose. And it is to be remembered that the burning of peat for fuel will make for cleaner homes and cities. Peat produces very little smoke and a small residue of fertilizer ash which is mighty good for the garden.

Mr. Richardson, whose government work makes him a close student of the great laboratory of all out-of-doors, has talked and pleaded for consideration for the peat wealth for many years. Now he feels confident and comfortable. The peat movement is on and, apparently, it has come to stay and develop quickly into a vast industry.

Q. Has London a corner as busy as Columbus Circle? N. Y.

A. Piccadilly at the Ritz Hotel is the busiest spot in London. An average of 2,873 vehicles pass this corner in an hour, while 3,266 vehicles pass around Columbus Circle in the same length of time.

Q. How ripe should tomatoes be when picked? H. G. F.

A. Tomatoes which are to be shipped to a distant market should be picked when two-thirds ripe. If for local markets, the fruit should be riper. For home consumption or for canning, the tomatoes should be left on the vine until ripe.

Q. Is any more land being set aside for national forests? N. A.

A. The purchase of 42,221 acres of land to be added to the eastern national forests was authorized on June 15th by the National Forest Reservation Commission. About 25,000 acres of this is in Virginia, the rest including tracts in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Tennessee, and West Virginia.

Q. Kindly publish examples of technical words. A. O. S.

A. Such words as engineer, pilot, mechanician, struts and magneto are technical words.

Q. Where are the most cattle raised in South America? R. G.

A. The Pan-American Union says that the region of greatest density of cattle is that surrounding the Plata River, including Uruguay, Southern Rio Grande do Sul, and five provinces of Argentina. In this territory, comprising less than 6 per cent of the area of South America, 46 per cent of the cattle are raised.

Q. Please suggest something for summer window curtains. I dislike the bare windows? A. S. K.

A. Use scrim, voile or Swiss curtain material which can be bought by the yard and has a border on one or both sides. Turn a hem on one side wide enough to run the curtain pole through. This will make curtains the depth of the upper window sash, with a border at the top and bottom. They make the room look dainty and fresh, but do not obstruct the breeze and do not gather dirt by blowing against the screens.

Q. Where does the spinach which can be bought all winter, come from? I. K.

A. The truck farms of the South ship spinach north. In 1919, 2,102 cars were sent out, 87 per cent of them being from Virginia and Texas.

Q. Who was Thamyris? M. C.

A. Thamyris was a bard who challenged the Muses to a contest of singing. He was overcome by them and as a punishment was blinded and deprived of his gift of song.

Q. Do fleas have wings? H. N. C.

A. The flea is a small wingless insect. There are about 100 species known, of which one-third are American.

Deborah Rebekah lodge will meet at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in Odd Fellow hall.

FORCES AUTO DRIVER TO ADMIT CARELESSNESS

Struck by an automobile from Madison on the Appleton-Menasha road Thursday evening, the family of Barnard Hopfensperger, Menasha, meat dealer, riding in a Ford car, escaped serious injury by the slightest chance. The Hopfensperger machine was forced into the ditch by the side of the road but did not capsize. In the meantime the Madison machine had traveled some distance, the driver never stopping to ascertain the damage done. Mr. Hopfensperger took up the chase, overtook the other machine, and secured an admission from the driver of responsibility for the collision.

Prof. William Herrmann of Chicago preached at English and German services of St. Paul Lutheran church Sunday in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. T. J. Sauer. The latter was at Elkhorn Sunday to preach at the fiftieth anniversary of the Elkhorn Lutheran church, of which he formerly was pastor.

Speeder Fined
For driving 33 miles per hour on Lake-st., Sunday, Ben Sadloff was arrested by Chief of Police George T. Prim and taken into municipal court Monday morning. He paid a fine of $22.20.

70 SCOUTS LEAVE FOR TWO WEEKS OF LIFE AS CAMPERS

Automobiles Convey Youngsters and Their Baggage to Camp Onaway.

Monday was a red letter day in the lives of 70 boy scouts who embarked by automobile for Camp Onaway, Chain of Lakes, for two weeks of glorious fun. The boys were up bright and early and assisted eagerly in preparations for the start. Their enthusiasm was unbounded, especially when they saw the Thorsen truck in charge of John Roach loaded to capacity with delicious "eats" and fruit.

There were 60 Appleton boys and 10 from Kaukauna in the group. All were taken to camp in automobiles provided by Appleton people and left at various intervals during the morning. The camp leaders, Howard P. Buck, scout executive; Chris Mullen, scoutmaster of troop No. 6; Leigh Hooley, assistant scout commissioner; and several others were in the automobile procession. Mrs. Buck and daughter accompanied the executive. One trip was made by the truck Sunday, heavily loaded with scout baggage. A few scouts who could not wait for the opening day went to the island Saturday or Sunday and slept in pup tents until the equipment arrived.

KEEP QUIET WHILE BAND IS PLAYING

Automobile owners who park their cars in West park while the concert by the Artillery band at 8 o'clock Monday evening is in progress are instructed by George T. Prim, chief of police, to refrain from moving the machines while the band is playing. All automobiles in the vicinity will be required to keep their engines quiet, their cutouts closed and their cars at a standstill until the band finishes a selection.

This will be the fourth open air concert of the season and will be held in West park for the benefit of Fourth ward residents. The program is to be a popular and attractive one.

TIRE BLOWOUT SENDS MAN THROUGH GLASS

Hurled through the windshield of the large truck he was driving when the huge left rear tire exploded, Percy Huebner of Wisconsin Rapids, son of Joseph Huebner of 752 State-st., is in a Wisconsin Rapids hospital. Although severely cut about the head and face and badly bruised on other parts of the body, he will recover.

The freak accident occurred just outside the city limits. The "blow-out" was so forceful that it lifted the heavy machine clear of the road and threw it over on its side. The driver was taken to the hospital by passing motorists. Mr. Huebner of Appleton visited his son yesterday and reports his condition is favorable.

RECENT RAINS SAVED COUNTY POTATO CROP

Recent rains probably will save the late potato crop, in the belief of John J. Sherman, president of the Citizens National bank, who made an automobile trip through the northern part of the county Sunday. He said the fields around Siloet and Stephenson looked excellent, and the cabbage also is maturing nicely. Cabbages for pickles grow in such abundance farmers are selling them for almost nothing. The northern part of the county appears to have had more rain than other sections, and the crops therefore are more abundant.

LET THE FOLKS KNOW WHERE THEY ARE MEETING

Souvenir programs and picture postcards of the convention headquarters, Elk club and Sherman house, were presented to visiting merchants of the Wisconsin Retailers association by the chamber of commerce Monday. The cards contain a facsimile written message to the folks at home, so the visitor need only sign his name. Chamber of commerce song sheets were supplied the delegates for their meetings.

MAY RIDE ON SPECIAL TRAIN TO CONVENTION

Capt. A. A. Gritzmacher, president of the Red Arrow Veterans club, has received a letter from the Racine Red Arrow club inviting members of the local organization to join them in the trip to the annual convention at De troit of the Thirty-second division of the American Legion, which that city is planning to engage a special train providing for the folks at home, so the visitor need only sign his name. Chamber of commerce song sheets were supplied the delegates for their meetings.

Harold Fountain and Lester Ballet, spent Sunday at St. Norbert college at DePere. Miss Mildred Hilbert and Miss George Hackworthy will spend several days in Green Bay this week.

Adventures of the Twins

A Mystery
Chick went on singing, but looked into the hole where the maple sirup was to run, at the end of each verse. Nothing there.

"Huh!" said he. "It's the weather! Sprinkle Blow's no good, helpers or no helpers!"

Now South Wind heard him and whispered softly, "Why do you stay? Why do you watch so closely? Don't you know that the watched pot never boils?"

"Why of course!" nodded Chick. "How stupid of me! I'll go away at once, and maybe when I come back it'll be full."

So off he trotted, over to the hemlock tree again, and began to nibble at some pine cones he had missed in the winter. He particularly liked the nice tasty seeds away down near the corner.

Pretty soon Chick said, "I'll just go and see if my map is working now. Surely the sap has started to flow."

So he gave a jump from the hemlock to the maple tree and hustled along a branch to his own room about half way up, just over the woodpecker's house. Suddenly he gave a cry of joy. "Jinny Christmas!" he shouted, "It's coming. There are about 10 drops here now." And he stuck in a finger to taste it. "Um, yum!" he exclaimed, smacking his lips. "That's delicious. I'll go away again and come back later. By that time it will be full perhaps and won't I have a feast!"

"Off he went again, humming happily. By and by he ran up to his house again and peeped in. "Half full!" he exclaimed. "Next time I'll make a meal of it, and off he went again."

In a few minutes he returned. This time he closed the door after him. "Now for the best dinner a red squirrel ever tasted," said he, smacking his lips all over again.

But behold! The sirup was as gone as last Thanksgiving's turkey!

Serve More Peaches

Very few minutes' boiling are required for this recipe for peach butter. It will keep two years if put in pint jars and sealed while boiling hot.

An amount that is sure to be used during the winter months may be put in jelly glasses and covered with paraffin.

Nancy's Peach Butter
Scald peaches and slip skins. Remove stones. Put a very little water in the bottom of the preserving kettle, add fruit and cook until the peaches are tender. Stir to prevent burning. Rub through a wire sieve. Measure fruit pulp and add as many cups of sugar as there are cups of fruit. Put in preserving kettle and stir constantly while cooking. Bring to the boiling point and boil from five to seven minutes, counting the time after bubbling begins. The length of time required to cook the butter depends on the amount of water in which the peaches are cooked. Seal while boiling in pint jars or put in jelly glasses and cover with paraffin when cold. Do not try to make more than one quart of butter at a time.

Peach Preserves
Scald peaches and slip skins. Remove stones and cut in slices. Weigh fruit and use three-quarters pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. Boil sugar and water until the sirup is thick. Drop in peaches and simmer for fifteen minutes. Put in pint jars and seal while boiling hot.

Peach and Pineapple Marmalade
Seven pounds peaches, 1 ripe pineapple, 2 lemons, 6 pounds sugar.

Pare and slice the pineapple. Skin and stone the peaches. Put fruit in preserving kettle with just enough water to prevent burning. Bring slowly to boiling point and simmer for half an hour. Sift in the sugar gradually, add the juice of the lemons and simmer for fifteen minutes. Put into sterilized pint jars and seal while boiling hot. The stones may be cracked and a few of the peach kernels added with the lemon juice.

A Strange Silence

Jordan Spence handed the flash to me and rushed to Chrys' side.

"She is not dead!" he cried and he chaffed her hands while Bob cut the strips of pillow casing which tied his sister.

Chrys sat up, tried to talk, made helpless gestures.

She was dumb!

Bob and I perceived immediately what had happened. Once before, Chrys had fallen into that queer state, and had remained in it for weeks.

Spence questioned her. Bob explained: "Hysterical paralysis! She has been terribly frightened!"

Chrys nodded, then by gestures made it clear that we must get out of the place as soon as possible. Bob thrust a pencil and notebook into her hands—but she flung them upon the bed. I understood.

"Hurry—hurry! What's what she says!" I explained. And I led the way back to the ladder under the trap door in the closet.

At the foot of the ladder, Katherine and Daddy Lorimer awaited us.

Daddy had improved even a dark hour. He and Katherine had ferreted out the genuine "Moet et Chandon."

It was worth its weight in gold. Daddy's pockets were crammed with bottles. Katherine had tied half a dozen in her motor veil, and was carrying them as tenderly as one would carry a child.

At sight of Chrys, safe and sound, Daddy knocked off the head of one of the precious bottles. Chrys dashed it to the ground and pushed her father before her toward the entrance to the cellar.

"Hurry!" I said, for her.

We moved cautiously back to the alcove below the fountain. Nobody needed to warn another to be quiet. We all realized that a danger menaced us.

How Chrys had reached the upper floor of the old house we could not imagine, and she could not tell. Somebody had bound her, and that person could imprison us all in the maze of cellars.

I led the way through the labyrinth of passages and was glad to feel that

Bob was close behind me. The other women followed. Daddy and Spence would have rushed us girls to the safety of the outer world, but Daddy Lorimer had not forgotten why we were there.

He spoke to Spence who once more exhumed the little casket with its heavy treasure of royal jewels.

The men covered the white velvet box with an overcoat, and we passed through the sliding panel in the wall and breathed fresh air at last.

The hour was late, the alley deserted. We walked without haste along the high wall which backed that house of such dreadful memories. I prayed the god of chance never to let me look upon it again.

We rounded the corner of the alley and entered a side street where we had parked our car. Etienne and Etienne, the most faithful of chauffeurs—were gone!

The men conferred in a group about the casket of gems which Spence carried in his arms.

We women did not need to be told that Etienne had been tricked—and that already we were being stalked like hunted animals!

MERCHANTS BLANK KAUKAUNA ROYALS

West End Merchants baseball team won another game from the Kaukauna Royals Sunday afternoon, shutting them out by a 6 to 0 score. The game was played at Brandt park. Schneid-er pitched a great game for the Merchants, holding the hostiles safe at all times. He was given first class support.

The Merchants scored five runs in the first inning on hits and two errors. The batteries follow:

Carl Dutt of Milwaukee spoke at the meeting of the Young Peoples alliance of Emanuel Evangelical church Sunday evening on "Our Life Chums." He pointed out the requisites of a successful sailor and citizen, and then compared them with the essentials of a christian life.

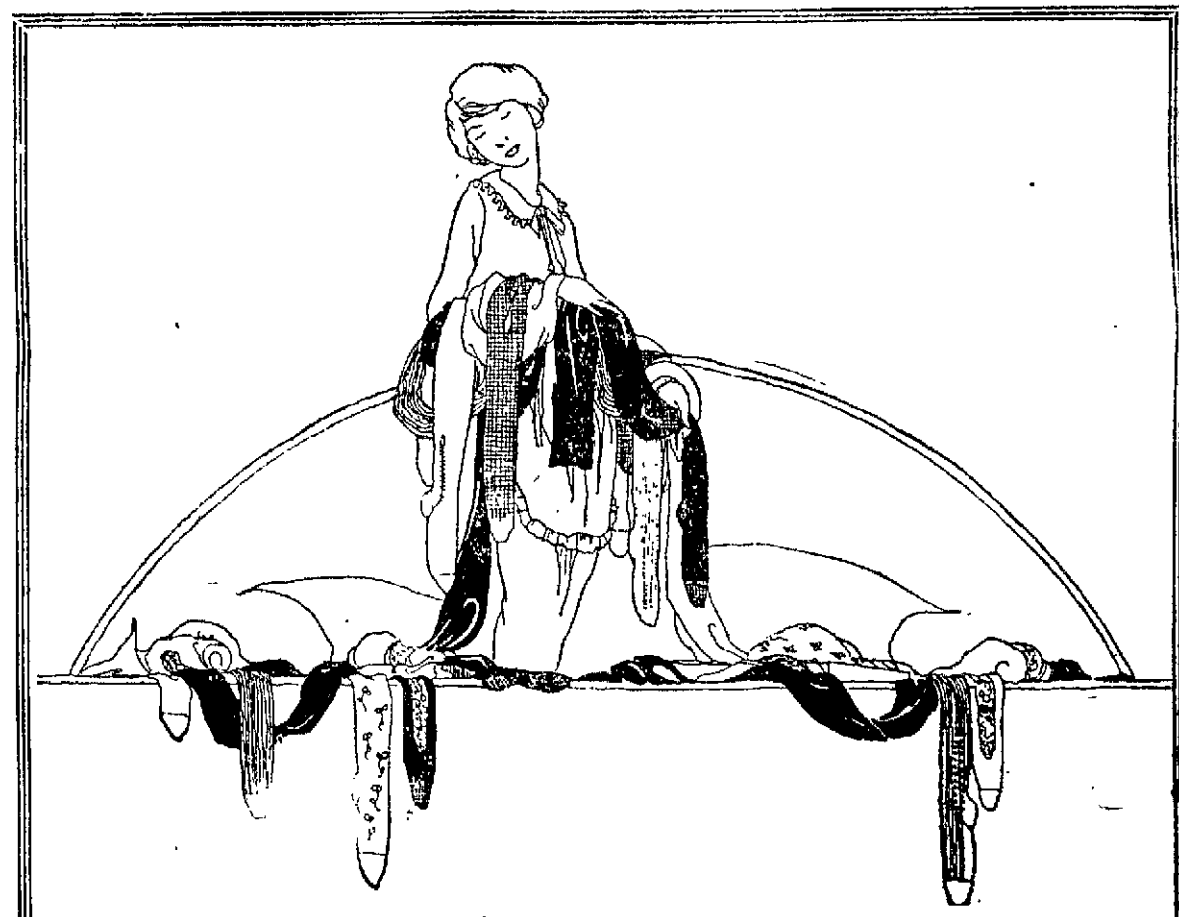

INSURANCE MAN PRIZES IT HIGHLY

Would Pay Fifty Dollars a Bottle For Tanlac Rather Than Be Without It, He Says

"It used to be just all I could do to work until quitting time, but Tanlac has built me up to where I can work all day and part of the night without feeling played out," said Herman Kurtzisch, well-known employee of the Northwestern Life Insurance Company, residing at 406½ Norris Place, Milwaukee, Wis.

"My stomach was out of order. I had dizzy spells, felt nervous, couldn't sleep well and was in a general run-down condition for the past two years. I felt so tired all the time I hated to go to work, and often got to feeling so bad I just had to quit and come home. My stomach felt like it was on fire, and this heartburn was so bad I was afraid to eat and just had to force down every bite. I would toss and tumble the whole night long, and often had nervous, nauseating spells that made me feel almost deathly sick at my stomach."

"But I've gained several pounds in weight now, and am right there when it comes to eating, working or sleeping. My stomach trouble is only a memory and I feel so good I hardly seem like the same man. The way I was getting along when I got Tanlac I think I would have had to give up my job before long, and I believe I have this medicine to thank for keeping me at work. My wife takes it since seeing how it helped me, and I've also got a number of my friends started on it. If I felt the need for medicine, I would rather pay fifty dollars a bottle for Tanlac than do without it." Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

THE PANAMA CANAL IS AN OBJECT LESSON IN PATRIOTISM

Everybody knows that the Panama Canal was a great undertaking, but how many American citizens realize that it is the most gigantic engineering enterprise in the history of the human race?

The Panama Canal is not merely a mammoth ditch connecting two oceans. It is far more than that. It is an imperishable memorial of the constructive genius of our people of our victory on the battlefield of peace.

Our Washington Information Bureau will present any reader with a handsome and useful souvenir in the form of a four-color map of the Panama Canal made under the direction of the National Geographic Society. Fill out the coupon and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage.

Frederick J. Haskin, Director, The Appleton Post-Crescent, Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

I enclose herewith two cents in stamps for return postage on a free copy of the Panama Map.

CROPS SHOW LITTLE CHANGE IN GROWTH

Crop Reporting Service Declares Potatoes Are Barely Holding Own.

(Special to Post-Crescent.)

Madison, Wis.—Growing crops as a whole show little change since a week ago, states Joseph A. Becker, of the Wisconsin cooperative crop reporting service today. In some counties an improvement is shown, while the decline continues in others. Fall plowing has been delayed by dry soil conditions in many places. Land clearing, manure hauling and threshing were facilitated by moderate weather conditions.

Corn needs rain to insure full sized ears. Silage corn is practically made now. Potatoes in commercial sections are barely holding their own. Some improvement is noted in southern counties. Hopper-burn damage is increasing. Threshing of grains is completed in the southwestern counties and generally elsewhere. Yields of all grains, except rye, are light. Some fall rye has been sown. Cutting of oats in northern counties is about completed. A large acreage has been mowed for hay. Second crop of alfalfa and clover yields light to fair. Much clover has been pastured. New seedlings which survived the drought shows some improvement. Pastures are improving but still scant. Clover seed acreage is reduced and the stand is thin. Heads are filling well however. Some early tobacco has been cut. Late tobacco needs rain badly. Tobacco worms are still doing some damage. Cabbage attacked by yellows and onions by thrips in the Kenosha-Racine district. Cucumbers for pickles are yielding fair. Sugar beets declined somewhat. Cattle are thin from scarcity of pasture.

BINNING SUGGESTS NEW AUTO ROUTE TO OSHKOSH

In order that traffic going direct from Appleton to Oshkosh may avoid detours at Neenah because of construction work now in progress south of that city, Highway Commissioner Binning of Winnebago co., suggests that through traffic from Appleton follow highway 18 west to federal highway 39 then south on 39 to Gillingham's corner and into Oshkosh on highway 15.

The commissioner's suggestion was made after the Neenah Civic association had asked the marking of a detour into the city from the south which would divert traffic away from the Neenah Main-st., and prevent obstruction of improvement work there. Besides marking the detour, the commissioner has also made the suggestion in regard to through traffic.

As laid out by the commissioner, the new detour on the Oshkosh-Neenah road begins at Brooks' corners and directs traffic north over the Dixie-rd. and into Neenah by way of Snells station, along the west side of the Soo line and entering on South Commercial-st.

The Longer You Live The More You're Worth

Health Talk No. 34 by James A. Rolfe, D. C.

Health turns the Clock Backward

Recently B. C. Forbes compiled an array of facts proving conclusively that a man's greatest usefulness begins at age forty, and continues indefinitely beyond that age.

But life insurance statistics indicate that the majority of men die under forty. The reason lies in the uncertainty of health methods. Of all the methods now known, chiropractic, the youngest of them all, is most definite and scientific. It finds and removes the cause of disease. It is lengthening thousands of lives.

Chiropractic spinal adjustment removes the cause of disease in the head, throat, lungs, heart, stomach, liver, kidneys and other organs of the body.

NEENAH CLAMORING FOR A CITY PLAN

Stirred up over recent attempts of various concerns to establish industrial plants in its residence sections, the city of Neenah may follow Appleton's lead, adopt a city planning ordinance as provided by law and engage a city planner.

City Planner Leonard C. Smith will address a meeting of the board of directors of the Neenah Civic Association and city officials Tuesday noon and will explain what a city plan is and how it could be adopted in Neenah.

Several years ago the city council deliberated on the adoption of a city planning ordinance but through lack of interest, the measure was not accepted. The growth of the city, however, has recently attracted attention to the need of a definite and systematic plan along which future expansion may be directed. Residents of various sections of the city are becoming alarmed at threatened encroachments by factories and are asking for a zoning system whereby industrial expansion can be checked in such a way that present residential portions may remain intact.

OUTAGAMIE FARMERS ARE FILLING SILOS

Farmers are busy cutting their ensilage and this year depend less than ever on having the work done for them. The plan now pursued is for two or three to combine and purchase an outfit which consists of a gasoline engine and silo filler and assist each other in harvesting their crop. In this way they do away with delays which in former years were often annoying. The crop of ensilage this year is one of the heaviest in the history of the county and is being cut fully two weeks earlier than other years. As the hay crop was light more ensilage will be fed the coming winter than ever before.

PLAN HOMECOMING FOR CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS

Elaborate plans are being made for a home coming of all former members of the Christian Endeavor society of the First Congregational church of this city to be held Aug. 27. Dr. John Paville and many other prominent members will be present. A splendid program for the afternoon and evening and the following Sunday is being prepared by the alumni association, with E. E. Dunn, president and Mrs. George Peckard secretary. Although the details of the plans have not been fully developed it is expected that the gathering will be unique in the annals of the society. Persons who know the names of former members have been asked to communicate with Mrs. Grace Meyer.

Careless People Cause Postoffice Extra Work

Undeliverable Mail Is Huge Factor in Keeping Department Costs High.

One hour a day is consumed at the postoffice to correct people's laziness, carelessness and mistakes. Postmaster Gustav Keller has started a campaign to eliminate this condition as much as possible, especially because of an appeal from the postmaster general to stop the flood of human errors all through the country by which part of the deficit in the postal department is caused.

Misdirected or partially addressed mail, and letters or postals containing no return address are the chief cause of the trouble. Every mail carrier on the force must handle the mail which is undeliverable according to the address. The letters then are given directory service, general delivery service and eventually returned to the owner or sent to the dead letter office.

"Approximately 100 letters a day reach the Appleton postoffice with incorrect or insufficient address, most the result of carelessness," said Postmaster Keller. "If people don't happen to know a street address, they omit it thinking the postoffice ought to know where the letter should go. The public would save money for their local department, and the saving in the entire country would amount to an enormous sum if these lax practices would stop. People forget that their money keeps up the service, and that these savings would be reflected in lower taxes."

Mr. Keller relates a recent incident where a letter came to the office addressed to a well known business man. It bore no initials and the first letter of the last name was wrong. The firm name given was that of another like institution in the city instead of the one where the man was employed. The clerk's might have sent the letter to the rival institution, but suspected there was a mistake. The office of the sender was called to verify Mr. Keller's belief. He inquired why the letters could not be addressed fully and correctly.

"Oh, that's the way they are dictated to us," said the girl who answered the telephone.

"That was a case where the clerk might have used a little more common sense," said Mr. Keller. "Invariably the postoffice gets the blame for failures at delivery, when firms or persons themselves are careless."

or take too much for granted. The government must pay for this, and the efficiency of service is interfered with."

Return addresses also are important, the postmaster says, because letters wrongly addressed or undeliverable can be returned.

How much care and caution would mean in a nationwide effort is shown by figures obtained by Mr. Keller.

from the New York postoffice. An average of 550,000 pieces of mail arrives there every day in undeliverable condition or 127,750,000 pieces a year. Chicago has about as heavy a burden. With 55,000 offices in the United States, the drain on efficiency becomes a big factor in the economy program if people can be taught to be conscientious and make fewer mistakes, Mr. Keller says.

GREEN BAY DEFEATS CREAM CITY TEAM

Hit by Former Kaukauna Player Gives Baymen Victory Over Red Sox.

Green Bay, Wis.—Maces long hit to center field in the ninth inning scoring Seberhart, enabled the home team to defeat Lange's Red Sox here on Sunday by a score of 3 to 2. The game was played before the largest crowd of the season, who romped on the diamond and did a snake dance after Maces' winning hit.

The Red Sox were first to score, chalking up a tally in the first inning on Breilmer's home run. The Baymen retrieved the lost run and obtained a one run edge when they scored two in their half of the session. Four clean pokes off Dodge admitted the brace of runs.

Singles by Britz and Breilmer gave the Sox two in the seventh and knotted the score.

Wooten on the mound for the Baymen and Dodge, pitching for the Sox hurled good ball. Both were given wonderful support and both were high invincible in the pinches.

Sport Views And News

Klawitter Speaks One

A circus catch by Klawitter in the fifth inning probably cut off a run. Mudloff singled after two were out and then Shott whaled a liner just inside the first base line but Klawitter shoved out his mit and the ball stuck, ending the rally.

Weissgerber got as far as third base in the sixth inning but died there when Klawitter failed in the pinch. Weissgerber singled to start the inning and went to shortstop on Hoffman's single through shortstop to left field. He went to third while Hoffman was being retired on Schultz's roller to Beyer and then Klawitter killed the hopes of the Menasha fans by flying out to Wood.

Murphy got into the limelight in the sixth frame when he doubled along the third base line after fouling off about a dozen balls. He was stranded on the paths, however when Wood fanned.

Schultz started the Appleton half of the seventh with a pretty single to right. Spies attempted to sacrifice him but the big pitcher was forced at second. There was no more doing in that inning. Priebe furnished the excitement in the eighth by clouting the ball over the fence for a home run.

Murphy's team gave Schultz gilt edged support, finishing the game without an error and playing the kind of ball that is seldom found in a semi-pro league. It was one of the classic exhibitions by the Appleton team this year.

More hard luck for Tris Speaker. Nunamaker, who is one of the aces of the Cleveland backstopping squad, broke his leg in Saturday's game against Boston when sliding into second base and he will be out of the game for the rest of the season. This is a stiff blow to the world champions because Steve O'Neill the first string catcher is also laid up. Speaker hasn't a regular to put behind the plate and this will crimp the Indians dash toward another pennant.

Quick Watson the needle. But he didn't need it, Saturday. Pitching for the Bostonians, Pitcher Watson pulled the "Iron-Man" stunt and turn back the Phillies twice on the same afternoon. In the first game the Hubturban hurler allowed nine hits and in the second he gave but two. If there had been a third game he probably would have broken into the Hall of Fame.

Fans in Gotham are riding McGraw. The Giants' manager is being panned to the limit for his numerous trades. So far his swaps haven't proved very beneficial and his critics claim that the new additions to his baseball machine aren't any improvement over the old players. Muggsy is having his troubles these days and he doesn't cop a pennant for the Giants before long, we wouldn't be surprised to see somebody else handling the reins of Father Knickerbocker's National leaguers.

JUNCTION STARS WIN FROM POST-CRESCENTS

The revived Post-Crescent team, idle for several weeks, was in no form to stop the Junction Stars and lost, 10 to 9, at Grandt park Sunday morning. The score was tied in the seventh inning but the Stars would not be denied and finished in front.

Steward pitched a good game for the scribers but his support was ragged. Three or four dropped flies in the out field gave the game to the Stars.

HEELS TILDEN

Erik Tegner

Cleveland—Erik Tegner, star of the Danish Davis cup team now in America, is the only member of the trio who speaks English.

He is the tall type of sunny-haired, blue-eyed Norsemen.

Tegner came to the United States from Paris, where he is studying engineering.

He has beaten Vagn Ingerslev, 1921 singles champion of Denmark.

His best game is at the net. He played at Wimbledon last year. Recently he played into the semi-finals of the hard-court championship at St. Cloud, France. He was put out by the Belgian champion.

The Danish star is 24.

"I want to meet your American champion, William Tilden, some time," says Tegner.

"He is heady like the wonderful French girl—Suzanne Lenglen. I think Suzanne can beat any woman player in the world."

OSHKOSH WINS CLOSE GAME FROM EDISONS

Oshkosh—Oshkosh defeated New London here Sunday afternoon, 3 to 2, in an interesting game. Hoffman held the local team to seven hits but they were bunched. Errors also contributed to the defeat. Stevenson was in his usual form, holding New London to six hits and passing only one man. Hoffman passed four and hit one.

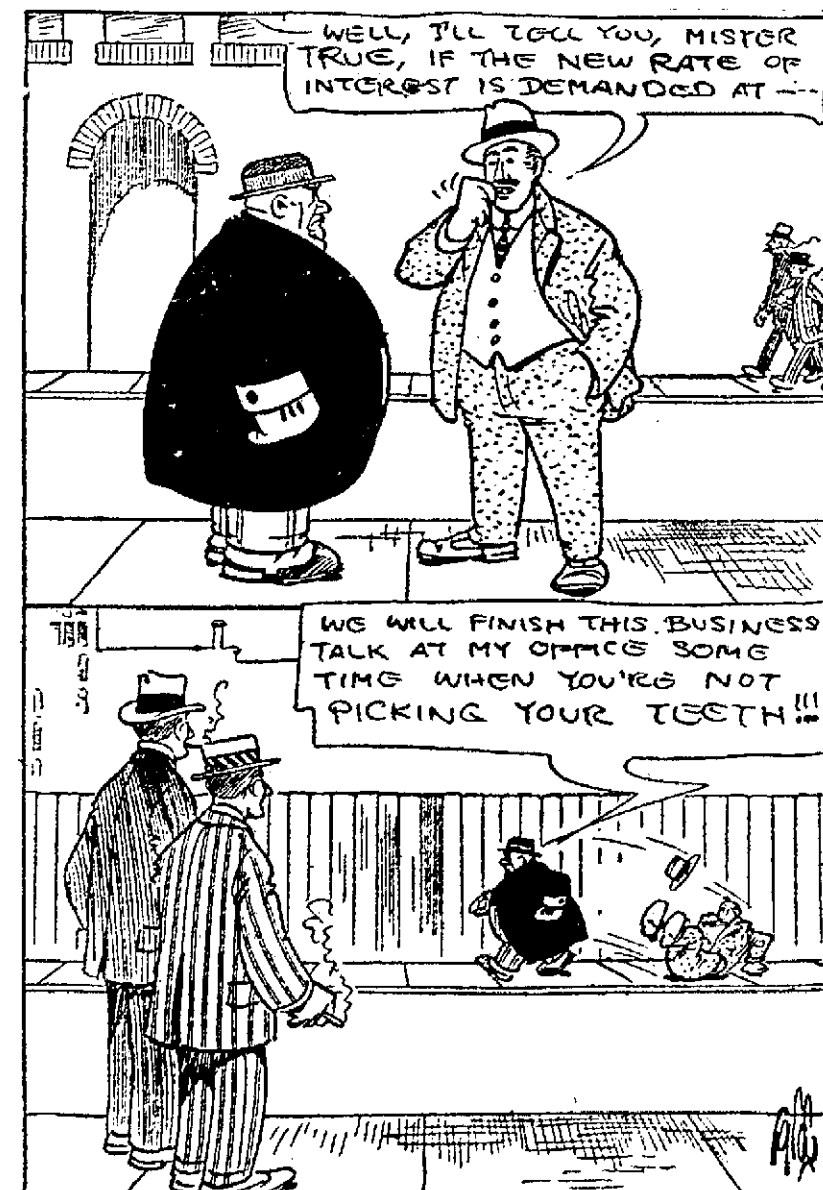

New London used two catchers. Dolan started the game but later was replaced by Doman. A fair sized crew saw the battle.

FORESTER TEAM WINS OVER FREEDOM BOYS

The Catholic Order of Foresters baseball team defeated Freedom at Grandt park Sunday afternoon, 5 to 4. The Forester team was made up of the men who will represent the court in the interstate game in Chicago the latter part of this month.

Nice and O'Hanlon made up the Forester battery. Schommer worked on the hill for Freedom.

RALLY IN NINTH GIVES KIMBERLY ANOTHER VICTORY

Kaukauna's New Pitcher Is Touched for Three Hits in Last Frame.

With one out in the last of the ninth, Kimberly bunched three hits and won the ball game by a score of 3 to 2. Sunday afternoon, from Kaukauna on the Kimberly grounds. It was one of the most exciting games of the season. Only two errors were made.

Grossel, Kaukauna's new pitcher, made good and with a team behind him he could place the team in the lead. The hurler was credited with 10 strikeouts and the hard hitters from Kimberly had garnered only three dinkys up to the last of the ninth frame. As usual with the Electric city gang, something in the machinery slipped and they lost again after the game was practically over.

After Sylvester fled to Wittig in the ninth, M. Lamers singled and T. Tamers biffed the pill for three bases, tying the score. Their singled and scored Lamers.

Wittig started the game by lacing out a two bagger and Thompson followed with a dinky hit. Wittig was run down between the bases.

Kimberly scored in her half of the inning after Caval hit for two bases. Grossel fanned two men in that inning. Thereafter it was more or less of a pitchers battle, neither side hitting enough to keep the fielders busy.

H. Schmidt hit a two bagger in the second but he died on the paths. Shimmers allowed Kaukauna eight hits but they were well scattered.

The score stood 1 to 0 until the first of the sixth. Grossel singled but was forced on second when Wittig rolled to short. Thompson and Schmidt singled and scored Wittig. Kaukauna took the lead in the eighth. After two were out Schmidt singled, stole a base and romped around when Kruenger singled.

KIMBERLY WHIPS INTERLAKERS IN 11 INNING GAME

Great Contest Staged in Inter-factory League Saturday Afternoon.

Only one game was played in the Interfactory league Saturday afternoon but that game, between the Kimberly-Clark and the Interlakers, had about as many thrills as are found ordinarily in all three of the league games. The Kimberly-Clark team won the battle, 6 to 5, in 11 innings after the hardest kind of a tussle.

The Interlakers were leading 5 to 3, when the ninth inning started but they blew up and Kimberly knotted the count before the pulpman returned to earth. The tenth inning went scoreless but a hit and an error let in a run in the eleventh and Kimberly won. A passed ball in the ninth inning was responsible for the two Kimberly scores which tied the count.

Sternagle, pitching for the Interlakers, struck out ten men and Doan fanned the same number. Elliott's great catch in right field was one of the features of the game. Interlakers out-hit Kimberly but were charged with four errors while only two were marked up against Kimberly.

Other games in the Interfactory league were called off because of rain. Arrangements for the post-season game to decide the championship of the league will be made at a meeting of the executive committee at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. Kimberly and Combined Locks now are tied and the season ended Sunday. It is probable the game will be played next Saturday afternoon.

IN .400 CLASS

Rogers Hornsby

St. Louis—Rogers Hornsby, Cardinal slugger, is having his first year with .400 batting eyes.

"I'm not afraid of a slump now," says Rogers.

"I've been shooting at a .400 year ever since I came up."

Hornsby hit .370 in 1920 winning the National League swat crown.

His eyes are extraordinarily large. And he has mastered the art of keeping them focused on a whizzing baseball.

He came up to the Cardinals from the Western Association in 1916. He was only a .250 hitter as a minor leaguer.

Each year he has shown improvement with the bat excepting 1918, when his average dropped to .281.

Besides being a slugger, Hornsby is rated as the fastest man in the National League. Some credit him with being faster than any of the American Leaguers, also.

Natural speed and ability; clean living, early to bed and a close study of the game have made him one of the game's greatest stars.

JENSS ARCADES WIN FROM PHONE TEAM

Challenge West End Merchants to Game for Championship of City.

The Jeness Arcade baseball team bolstered its claim to be in the running for the city championship by defeating the first Wisconsin Telephone Co. team in 11 innings, 4 to 3, at Grandt park Sunday. It was one of the best games played in the park this season.

Brooks, for the telephone team, and Maloney, for the Arcades, pitched great ball. Brooks, striking out 12 men and Maloney fanning 10. Harm and Peck were on the receiving ends.

The Arcades have challenged the West End Merchants to a game for the city championship. The Arcades have won all their games this season.

Their record follows:

Arcades, 9; Telephone Co. 3.
Arcades, 8; Menasha Stars, 4.
Arcades, 9; Junction Stars, 0.
Arcades, 8; Wrightstown, 3.
Arcades, 14; Junction Stars, 5.
Arcades, 4; Telephone Co. 2.
Games can be arranged by telephoning to the Jeness Arcade.

YANKS AND INDIANS FURNISHING THRILLS

Pittsburg Has a Commanding Lead in National League's Race.

New York—Cleveland and New York, in their little game of hide and seek in and out of the American league lead, are furnishing the spectacular features of the major league race.

Today, the Yankees, thanks to Red Faber who beat the Indians yesterday are in the lead by five slim points.

Washington, which assumed the role of a contender with a long string of victories ten days ago, is slipping and the Senators are giving away slowly to the Browns, which seem to have found themselves at last. Detroit is on the way back also, having turned over fifth place yesterday to the Red Sox.

Pittsburg has a four game lead in the National league because of better pitching and tighter fielding than the Giants have been getting. The Pirates are out in front with a four game lead and are showing no signs of cracking.

The Braves now have a slim chance to pull the "dark horse" stunt. Their handicap of eight games with only 45 to play is too heavy to expect a repetition of 1914.

The champion Robins have come out of their slump and are playing good ball, threatening to finish at least in third place.

INTERLAKES WIN FROM RAIL SQUAD

The Interlake ball team won a hot fight from the Chicago and Northwestern team at Interlake park Sunday afternoon by a 3 to 2 score. Wheeler, pitching for the railroad men, struck out ten batters while Last, Interlake's hurler, whiffed eight.

Next Sunday the Interlakes will play the Wisconsin Rapids team at Interlake park. The Rapids team is made up largely of former members of the Nekosia and Port Edwards team, one of the strongest in the Wisconsin river valley. The Interlakes also have been playing great ball this season and expect to give the northerners a run for their money. The game is to start at 2:30.

PLAN BIG WELCOME FOR FORESTER TEAM

Chicagoans Preparing for Baseball Game With Appleton Squad.

A real battle before thousands of spectators is expected when the baseball team of Appleton court No. 132, Catholic Order of Foresters, goes to Chicago Sunday, Aug. 28, to play De Soto court No. 528. These are the two largest courts in Wisconsin and Illinois respectively, and will stage a Foster championship contest.

Chicago Foresters are making big preparations for the game and will use the proceeds for the sick benefit fund. Cub park, where many noted contests have been staged, has been leased for the afternoon.

A big welcome celebration is to be arranged for Appleton and other Wisconsin delegations that attend. Space will be reserved in the grandstand for the Badger groups.

Circulars headed "The Badgers are Coming" are being circulated all through Chicago courts. Some poetry printed in prose style illustrates the "pep" with which the event is being arranged. It reads:

"Down in hordes from Wisconsin they pour, with balls and bats and mits galore. Ready for battle they swarm like cattle, to trample DeSoto onto the floor. Oh, will we meet 'em, Oh, will we beat 'em; Oh, will we drown 'em in their own gore?"

MASTER MIND BACK OF MAIL THEFTS
Story of Worthington's Capture Excels Fiction's Detective Yarns.

Chicago.—Had "Sherlock Holmes" stepped out of fiction, he could not have spun a more romantic story than that disclosed here in the arrest of John W. Worthington, head of a dozen financial enterprises.
Worthington is in jail at Waukegan, Ill., under $50,000 bond, charged with having acted as a "fixer" in disposing of bonds and other securities stolen from banks and mail cars all over the country. Federal officials say they will prove that Worthington was the brains of a ring of bank and mail car robbers operating from coast to coast—a gang having branches in 26 of the principal cities of the country.

Patrick J. Roche, internal revenue intelligence agent, is the Sherlock Holmes of the story. For four months in true fiction style, Roche shadowed the comings and goings of Worthington, and painstakingly gathered the evidence that brought the indictment of Worthington. Owen T. Evans, his business associate, and 26 other persons, still unnamed.
"The real story when it comes out, will be a surprise," says John V. Clinlin, assistant federal district attorney.

The Worthington case, federal officials say, will clear up at least 12 big mail and bank robberies, involving more than $5,000,000 in loot. Those include:
Toledo, O., mail robbery Feb. 17, 1921. Loot: $1,600,000.
St. Paul robbery near Council Bluffs, Ia., Nov. 13, 1920. Loot: $3,500,000.
Chicago mail robbery April 6, 1921. Loot: $350,000.
Bond robberies in Chicago and Cleveland.
Mail robberies at Pullman, Ill.; Mount Vernon, Ill.; St. Charles, Mo., and Sullivan Ind.

75 AUTOS WILL GREET BOOSTERS

MERCHANTS MEET TO ARRANGE FOR WARM RECEPTION

Geymour Boosters and Big Escort to Parade College-Ave. Tuesday.

At least 75 automobiles loaded with Appleton people will greet the Geymour boosters when they reach Kaukauna Tuesday morning. The neighbors will be given a royal escort to Appleton, and will find another crowd gathered on College-ave. to welcome them and testify to the loyalty of Appleton to the fair, which occurs Aug. 23 to 25.

Arrangements for the reception were completed by Appleton retailers at a meeting Monday morning in the city hall. It was agreed that all car owners are to assemble on College-ave. between Oneida and Morrison streets promptly at 9 o'clock. A large turnout of people is expected to fill the machines. There will be ample room for many who do not own cars. Automobile owners who were not approached by the committee also are asked to come with their cars.

"Boost Seymour fair" will be the slogan of the Appleton public, and it will be brought home to the people by banners, bearing these words, scheduled to meet the Seymour flotilla at 9:30 at Kaukauna. Signs will be made at Little Chute and Kimberly.

Seymour Has Holiday
Reaching Appleton at about 10:30, a parade will be held on College-ave. going west to Cherry-st. where the boosters will be on exhibition. There will be 20 cars in the Seymour procession, and a 20-piece band. Several amusing stunts will be staged and the fair will be announced.

Seymour also declares a holiday on Boosters day and families of auto owners join the delegation, loaded with their lunch baskets. They will leave their cars at 8 o'clock, and will visit Fresh-air, Kaukauna, Little Chute, Kimberly, Appleton, Greenfield, Hortonville, New London, Stevensville, Shiocton and De Pere.

Chief George T. Phipps of the police department, and Chief George P. McQuinn of the fire department will lead the boosters parade, with the latter red and white 20-piece band. It is expected to leave downtown about 10:30 to start in the afternoon, beat the band and witness the street performance.

LOOK PLEASANT, PLEASE!
